The Common Thread That Binds Us Together

Boydton, Virginia is a quaint, cozy and charming town nestled in the heart of Mecklenburg County and Lake Country, located along Highway 58 between South Hill and Clarksville.

"Come visit Boydton, centrally located in Mecklenburg County and serving as the County Seat. Visit our historic Boyd Tavern, Courthouse and Washington Tavern and many other sites of our historical past and future. We look forward to seeing you too," invites Thomas C. Coleman III, Mayor of the Town of Boydton.

The Mecklenburg County Courthouse takes center stage in the town. It was fully renovated in 2011 and is the active courthouse for Mecklenburg County.

The courthouse is not the town's only building of historical significance. Far from it. The town has 181 contributing historic structures, one of which is the Boyd Tavern that is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and sets the tone for visitors to the town. It was built by the town's founder, Alexander Boyd, in 1790 and currently houses a visitor's center and offers tours all year long.

Boyd Tavern was once used as a gathering place for students and professors from the original Randolph-Macon College that operated in Boydton from 1832-1863, prior to the civil war. Also, formerly existing on the Randolph-Macon site were the remains of the first oval horse track in America. There is a small but proud equestrian history in Boydton, and it is said that many champion lines of horses in Kentucky and Tennessee originated in Boydton.

The historic district of downtown Boydton is reminiscent of reversed villages in Europe and offers a unique window into Virginia's past.

A visit to the Town Hall or the Boyd Tavern will supply guests with a map for the self-guided historic walking tour of Boydton, with interesting facts about the history of the town. (printed in the Progress 2015 newspaper)

For the past 39 years residents, businesses and visitors pour into Boydton for the annual Boydton Day celebration. The mission of the Boydton Day celebration is to set aside one weekend a year for the purpose of providing a safe family friendly environment that aides in the advancement of spiritual, cultural and historical qualities of the entire community of Boydton, Virginia.

The mayor as well as the entire Boydton Day committee welcomes you to our town and hopes that your Boydton Day celebration provides an experience that takes you back to you childhood years when life was simpler and innocent. We are here to serve you so don't hesitate to seek us out for help.
